AUTUMN ON WIND RIVER.

The black pines stand high up the hills,
The white snow sifts their columns deep,
While through the canyon's riven cleft
From there beyond the rose clouds sweep.

Serene above their paling shapes
One star hath wakened in the sky,
And here in the gray world below
Over the sage the wind blows by,

Rides through the cottonwoods' ghost ranks
And hums aloft a sturdy tune
Among the river's tawny bluffs,
Untenanted as is the moon.

Far 'neath the huge invading dusk
Comes silence awful through the plain,
But yonder horseman's heart is gay,
And he goes singing, might and main.
—Owen Wister in Harper's Magazine.

BILL'S LITTLE GAL.

Being a man with a wide circle of acquaintances, I purposely avoid accuracy as to dates and localities. It is not even necessary to explain how I became associated with General Surly in the management of a big cattle ranch. He was one of the southern gentlemen whose earthly possessions were pretty well wiped out by the war, but he did not stop to chide fate nor wait for something to turn up. He converted his available assets into cash and made the investment in which I was eventually interested.

Of course the general had a beautiful daughter, or I would have nothing worth the telling. I avoid going into rhapsodies by simply saying that she grew to be a strong, stately and graceful woman whose physical attractions were matured in the outdoor world, whose education and accomplishments were those that few women have the mental grasp to acquire and whose heart was as tender as when her little girlish voice was raised in angry protest against placing the cruel brand upon some bleating maverick. I'll not betray by how many years I was her senior, but I fell in love with her the first time I saw her, a little vision of beauty astride a burro, riding wildly and without fear, swinging a miniature lasso, her black eyes aglow and her raven hair streaming in waves that even the sweeping wind of the prairie did not straighten.

Though she was a gentle little mistress, every one about the place was her slave. Even stoical old Bud Whipley, who should have lost every vestige of romance in his experience as trapper, scout, Indian fighter and cattle man, had secretly adopted the little witch in his heart, which had come warm and true through all these experiences. Like many a man who led the rough life of the frontier, he idealized a good woman, and the adoration bestowed by him upon Kitty Surly was as devoid of our earthly conception of love as though she had been an angel.

It was after she had been east to school and returned to us with all her natural beauty enhanced by the refining influences and opportunities she had enjoyed that old Bud came to me. "I don't like the way that coyote from the Robelda ranch is a-tryin to git inter the round up over here," he began. "Jim Bumper's no sorter feller fur sich a woman as our Kitty. I never heerd yet where he wiped out a feller critter what he didn't take unbeknowust or to a disadvantage. He's made big money, but he ain't square, an he'd make it hell on airth fur a woman. He's makin a strong play fur to git on the good side of the gineral, an I've 'bout made up my mind that I orter to tend to slippin Jim's cinch. Takin chances with critters like him is the same as takin chances with rattlesnakes. Jist say the word, an I'll make Jim Bumper git out o' here or fight, an he won't fight me fur certain reasons as is private till I git ready to turn loose. I reckon he's feelin kinder panicky already, fur I give it out all an singular to the boys over to the ranch that our Kitty warn't agoin to graze her pritty face on no range 'ceptin our own an that any feller what tried ropin her wouldn' never know jist how it happened he was disapp'inted. I don't of'en cut loose, but there hain't none o' the boys is hankerin partickaler to be round when I blow up."

I could see that the veteran was in deadly earnest, for his parchmentlike face had an unwonted glow of color, and in his deep set gray eyes there was a glint as ominous as a death warrant.

"See here, Bud," I said in a conciliatory tone. "There are some things about this case that I understand better than you do. I'm as determined as any man living that Jim Bumper shan't have Kitty Surly. I happen to know that she loves another man who would try to be worthy of her and who will marry her if the general can ever be convinced that a big fortune is not essential to her happiness. Jim's immense wealth, got nobody knows how, dazzles the general for a time, but he will never ask Kitty to marry against her will, and I can see that Jim is losing ground every day in the general's esteem. It is all right to let matters take their course, and nothing must be done that will make her talked about."

But old Bud did not belong to the class of men who are content to drift. The necessity of his life had been to plan, plot and anticipate the movements of the enemy. But he said nothing, and I accepted the matter as at an end for the time.

It was a month before we were startled by a very unexpected occurrence. Bud rushed into the room where the general and I were transacting some business to announce that Jim Bumper had kidnaped Kitty and was following the old trail to the nearest large city. No time was lost in lamentations or inquiry. With a rush for arms and horses we were in the chase. For hours Bud staid right with us on his dilapidated broncho that he always said had done nothing more than switch its abbreviated tail when struck by lightning some 15 years before. Though Jim had one of the best mounts in the whole territory the extra weight began to tell, and a little after midnight we had our quarry in sight. The general was a dead shot. Bud never missed unless he wanted to, and I had a craving for vengeance that was only aggravated by a gentler passion.

What happened in the next few minutes can only be explained by the story which Bud afterward told with a series of chuckles and an occasional wheezy laugh that seemed to expend most of its force internally.

"I knowed all the time," he declared, "that Jim Bumper wouldn't play no square game when the stakes was so high, so I c'luded fur to take a han myself. I went over an smoked a pipe an had a council of war with big Bill Planters. Me an Bill uster be pardners. He has a mighty likely darter, an Jim had been shinin round her, lettin on she was 'bout the kind o' wife he was lookin fur. When I tole Bill how things was shapin up here to the ranch, I had to fairly put hobbles on him fur to keep him frum goin right over an spongin Jim off the yearth. He was mad chin deep, but I showed him a fist full o' trumps.

"The upshot was we makes a late call on Hank Yummers. Both me an Bill has saved Hank's scalp num'rous times, an he'd try fur to stan off satan himself if we'd intermate we wanted it. Nex' day Hank hires out to Jim Bumper, an it hain't long till them two is thicker than two brothers. Hank never mentions no gal by name, but he allus says she was the sweetest critter what ever picked posies from the parary, an why didn't Jim jist rope her on the sly, run her off an marry her. A game man could do it, an there'd be no trouble squarin up with the ole man arterward.

"Jim gits up his sand an agrees, Hank guaranteein to give the gal some sleepin medicine an have her in a hammock back o' the gin'ral's house, but there mus' be no brace game. Jim mus' marry the gal soon's he could git to a parson or a squire, or he must settle with Hank. If he done square, Hank would stan by him 'gainst a whole army o' rustlers, if it kim to that kind o' a show down.

"When this 'greement was all made, Hank gallops over an tells me an Bill, an we tells him fer to go ahead an have Jim run off the prize. One o' us would be at the round up."

When the pursuing party came within easy range of Jim Bumper, we saw there were two horsemen instead of one. When the general's voice rang out a "Halt!" one of the men faced his horse toward us and threw up his hands. Jim swung himself in the saddle, laid the girl tenderly by the side of the trail and struck the spurs into his panting horse. The general fired, but Jim plunged ahead. I took careful aim and pulled, but a shout of defiance from Jim was the only result, for we were using blank cartridges without knowing it. Then old Bud's long rifle gave forth its whiplike report, and the retreating horse went down, while his rider pitched headlong to the ground. It was with the greatest difficulty that we prevented the general from doing some more shooting, especially when he discovered that Jim's companion was Hank, whom the general had done many a favor.

"Durn me, if this hain't Bill Planters' gal!" shouted Bud as he knelt by the side of the trail.

"Course it is," snorted Hank. "That's her, an they won't be none of you gents walkin round tomorrer what says it hain't her. Jim Bumper wanted her fur his wife, an she wanted him, an I 'greed to see 'em through. When I gins my word, there hain't nothin less 'an a bullet goin to make me out a liar. There's goin fur to be a weddin or a few 'ristocratic funerals."

When Jim discovered that he had really carried off the wrong woman, he began to bluster, swear and deny, but when he felt Hanks' gun at one ear and old Bud's at the other, while the latter told that "me nor Hank won't see no shame put 'pon a darter o' Bill Planters, as has allus been our pard," he wilted, went meekly back with us and sat down to breakfast a married man. And a charming little wife she that was Miss Planters made him. Indeed, as old Bud put it, "she jist coaxed all that sneakin meanness out o' Jim an made him 'bout as decent a critter as you gen'rally see in double harness."

When Kitty and I were married, Mr. and Mrs. Jim were both at the wedding, and for the first time since the "kidnaping" he had a talk with Bud. "Old fellow," he said, "you rung in a cold deck on me, but I was a winner after all and there's no grudge. I git even with big Bill by calling him grandpa now, and Hank don't find time to do much but roll around with the baby."—Detroit Free Press.

The Value of Relics.

We do not believe that by worshiping relics we attain Nirvana, obtain any remission of our sins or gain even merely any worldly benefit. These advantages are effected only by persevering in the path of virtue.

An example: During a season of drought even the foul water is taken for drinking purposes after purifying the same. The purification is effected by removing the mud and filth from the water and putting a kind of gem (osaka-prasada) into the water. The gem will not cleanse the water if it has not been first separated from the filth. In order to purify our heart it must be first freed from sinful thoughts.

Again, as a fan helps us to feel the refreshing breeze and a musical instrument to feed our ears with melodious sounds, so the relics, be they of Buddha or of his holy disciples, give us courage in our attempt to alleviate our misery. The mere keeping of the fan without fanning or the musical instrument without playing will give us neither the breeze nor the music.—Rev. Seelakhandard in Outlook.

NEW PRIMARY ELECTION LAW.

At the last session of the Legislature an Act regulating primary elections was passed. The Act is known as the Stratton primary election law and is now in force. At the present session of the Board of Supervisors the first step toward putting the machinery of the new law into motion for the election next fall will be taken by that body. Under its provisions the party primaries must be held on Tuesday, July 12th, and it is to get into shape for this that the Supervisors will be called upon to act.

The law requires the Supervisors during January of each year to select the names of fifteen electors residing in each election precinct of the county, to be as nearly divided in politics as possible, place each set of names in an envelope to be sealed and marked with the name and number of the election precinct, and then place them in a box to be put away until needed. The clerk must record the names in a book and keep it in his office open to the inspection of the public.

Twenty days before the time set for the primaries the Supervisors are to open the box of names, group all from the election precinct which belong to one primary precinct and draw from that lot. The first name drawn will be the inspector, the next two the judges, and the following two, clerks. In case the two judges or clerks should be of the same political party, the last name drawn must be laid aside and others drawn until one of another political faith is secured.

The names left over are again put away for use in any district, county or city primary which may come during the year. The Supervisors must furnish each officer serving as primary election officers with a certificate setting forth the fact, with the date of such service, and when this certificate is presented to any court it shall excuse such person from jury duty for one year.

The clerk of the Board must publish a general statement of the primary election twice, fifteen days before it is held, setting out the parties who are to participate, officers who are to be nominated by the delegates elected, the election of officers and location of polling places, which shall not exceed one to every three precincts as given for general elections.

Electors who have voted at primary elections are not elegible to sign the petition for independent candidates. Having served once any elector may be excused from serving the second time on making the demand. Ballots for use at the primary elections are to be of different colors for the various parties.

The Hostetter Co. Wins Another Case.

The United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, Judge Townsend presiding, handed down an opinion December 23rd, 1897, granting injuntion and accounting, in the suit of The Hostetter Company against Isaac Sommers and Louis Joseph, for infringement of its Trade Mark. The jurist states, in bold and clear language, the rights accruing the Hostetter Company, and the liability incurred by all who would rob them, by fraud and misrepresentation, of the well-earned reputation and profits of a business built up by the efforts of half a century. The judge says, in part:

"The complainant is entitled to protection against the appropriation of its trade mark, by any and all unfair and dishonorable means, and a court of equity has power to grant such protection whenever it is satisfied that an attempt has been made by ingenius subterfuges, to invade the rights of an owner of a trade mark. * * *

In the sharp contest between the individual manufacturer, who strives to acquire and retain the fruits of industry and honesty, and the field of keen rivals, seeking to wrest from him the prize of the public good will, the inventive ingenuity of the infringer has conceived a great variety of devices for evading the established rules of fair dealing. * * Courts of equity finding that their ultimate object and effect were to enable and induce the retailer seller of a fraudulent imitation to palm it off on an unsuspecting public for the genuine article, and thus to contribute to the infringement upon the rights of the original owner, have not hesitated to apply the remedy."

The Birth of the Greater New York.

With the dawn of the new year the "Greater" New York is ushered into the world a full grown giant. The problem of municipal government is to be put to the supremest test. Within its limits is contained a population equal to that of thirteen of our sovereign States at our last census, and as numerous as that of the original thirteen States. Provisions for the life and health of this vast multitude of all nations and climes is an unsolved enigma. Thousands of sufferers in New York and elsewhere are wrested from the grasp of that agonizing complaint, rheumatism, by the timely use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is a preventive of malaria and kidney complaint, and a curative of liver complaint, constipation and nervousness.

In their petition, which was sworn to before a notary public, the bondsmen allege that on one occasion Luth appropriated to his own use the sum of twenty dollars which they allege should have been paid by him to the plaintiff in a civil suit. SONOMA, JANUARY 8, 1898.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

THE CITY TRUSTEES.

Firemen and the State Poll Tax—Electric Light Franchise—Other Matters.

The City Trustees held their regular semi-monthly meeting on Wednesday evening last. President J. H. Seipp was in the chair and all the members were present except Trustee Bulotti.

The minutes of the last regular and the two special meetings were read and approved, after which the following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

A. M. Haraszthy, hauling gravel	$ 9.00
D. Valenti, cleaning fire apparatus	11.70
L. Breitenbach, grading, assigned to A. Pinelli	480.00
J. E. Robin, salary	15.00
Sonoma City Waterworks Co., water	20.00
Wm. Green, lumber	1.18
Total	$536.88

The Street Committee reported that Mesdames A. Hope and A. McHarvey had refused to widen their sidewalks on First-street West pursuant to notice by the Board. The Marshal was instructed to notify these ladies to widen their sidewalks to the width established by the Board, within thirty days from this date.

The Clerk presented a report showing the financial condition of Sonoma City for the six months between July 1st, 1897, and January 1st, 1898, which was read and ordered referred to the Finance Committee.

L. Breitenbach reported to the Board in writing that he had completed the grading of the extension of First-street East, and asked the Board to accept the work. On motion of Trustee Poppe, seconded by Trustee Hartin, the work was accepted as satisfactory to the Board.

On motion of Trustee Hartin, seconded by Trustee Poppe, all bids for curbing the extension of First-street East, submitted at the regular meeting on December 15th, 1897, were rejected.

Fred'k T. Duhring presented an opinion in writing in relation to the claim of the members of the Sonoma Volunteer Fire Company for reimbursement for money paid by them for State poll taxes, which opinion was read by the Clerk and ordered placed on file.

On motion of Trustee Poppe, seconded by Trustee Hartin, a warrant was ordered drawn on the Treasurer in favor of J. H. Albertson, Secretary, for $62, to reimburse the members in good standing of the Sonoma Volunteer Fire Company for amounts expended by them in the payment of State poll taxes in 1897; and the Clerk was instructed to send a bill for the same to the Board of Supervisors of Sonoma county, with a demand for payment.

All bids for graveling the extension of First-street East, submitted at the special meeting of December 29th, 1897, were rejected for want of funds to do the work.

On motion of Trustee Hartin, seconded by Trustee Modini, the Clerk was instructed to ask permission of the S. F. & N. P. Railway Company to enter their reservation on the northwest corner of the extension of First-street East; and also request the Railroad Company to fill in the portion of the street between the railroad track and the northerly end of the same graded by L. Breitenbach.

The Street Committee was empowered to assume control of the extension of First-street East, under regulations as may be prescribed, until such time as the same is graveled and opened to the public.

F. T. Duhring and Julius Fochetti presented an application in writing for a franchise to construct and operate an electric light and telephone plant. A kick, however, was made by Trustee Poppe, who is opposed to water, light and everything else in the way of public improvements, and the whole business went over until the next meeting of the Board, when all the members are expected to be present.

An informal discussion was held concerning the advisability of appointing a City Attorney, but no action was taken.

Louis Breitenbach asked for a permit for thirty days to discharge firearms on his premises in East Sonoma. No action was taken.

G. DeBernardi asked that the Board change their custom of receiving bids for public work, but no action was taken.

No further business appearing the Board adjourned.

DROWNED IN SONOMA CREEK.

JOHN LEE, FIRST MATE OF THE "FOUR SISTERS"

The Victim of a New Years' Night Accident.

On New Years, shortly before midnight John Lee, first mate of the schooner "Four Sisters," accidentally fell overboard from the craft, which was tied up at the Lower Landing, and was drowned. No one witnessed the accident and Lee was not missed until the next morning.

At first it was thought that he was off celebrating the New Year, but when the tide went out about 12 o'clock his body was discovered at the bottom of the creek within a few feet of the schooner. The deceased had visited Embarcadero and Sonoma the afternoon of the day he was drowned, but shortly after dark he returned to the schooner. He lay down in his bunk, but got up some time during the night and accidentally stumbled overboard. He had a heavy overcoat on and being unable to swim must have sunk immediately, as the engineer of the schooner, who was aboard, heard no cry of distress.

The body was secured and Coroner Young, who had been notified by telegraph, came down from Healdsburg and held an inquest on the remains Monday morning. The verdict of the jury was accidental death.

The deceased had been employed on the "Four Sisters" a number of years and was well-known on the water front of San Francisco. He was a native of Holland and aged 65 years.

THE MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE.

"Examiner" Claims that His Name was Page and that He was a Waiter.

His Identity Not Established to the Satisfaction of Many Sonoma People.

The Examiner claims that Sydney Johnson, the mysterious stranger who shot and killed himself in this place, on Wednesday of last week, was Harry Page, a waiter in the New Orleans Coffee House, San Francisco. He was identified by a barber named Demartini by means of the photograph which appeared in that paper. Demartini says he knew the dead man well and that he won $3750 in the Louisiana lottery just before coming to Sonoma. As the man was well educated and had the manners of a thorough gentleman the people of Sonoma who were thrown in contact with him during his six month's sojourn here are loth to believe that the man's identity has been clearly established. They say, and with good reason, too, that if he ever was a waiter that he was out of his element and that Page was an assumed name.

It is now known that the suicide visited Sonoma in the early fifties, and at that time signed his name as Johnson, without the initials. The remains were given decent burial in Valley Cemetery on Saturday afternoon last. It will probably never be known to a certainty just who Johnson was. He was an educated, generous-hearted gentleman, however, no matter what his occupation may have been just previous to coming here.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Chas. H. Hall Passes Peacefully Away—Expired at the Supper Table.

Charles Henry Hall, brother of Robt. Hall of this place, died very suddenly at the home of the latter on Wednesday evening last. The deceased had just finished eating a hearty supper and while sitting in his chair conversing with the family his head suddenly dropped forward and upon examination it was discovered that he was dead. He had peacefully passed away without uttering a word. The cause of his death was heart failure.

Deceased was for many years a resident of Soquel, Santa Cruz county. Three years ago he retired from business and located in San Jose. For the past year he has been the guest of his brother, Mr. Robt. Hall. Mr. Hall was a native of Brookline, Mass., and had reached the ripe old age of 74 years and 11 months.

The remains were taken to San Jose yesterday morning and interred in Oak Hill Cemetery.

WHAT IS BEING SAID

Pointers Secured by Our Man Around Town.

That Sonoma Valley is the prettiest spot in all California.

That Sonoma has the best streets of any town in Sonoma county.

That what this town needs is less jawbone and more backbone.

That Road Master August Martens of Glen Ellen is the right man in the right place.

That another of Sonoma Valley's fair damsels is wearing a diamond engagement ring.

That this town has more silurians to the square yard than any other place of its size in the State.

That if Sydney Johnson was Harry Page, a San Francisco waiter, who was Harry Page?

That Trustee Poppe is opposed to electric lights. That he don't want poles or wires in front of his house.

That the weather prophets of Glen Ellen are Dr. Gunsberger, John J. Leibert and A. R. Harrison.

That in view of the many changes made by the last Legislature in the law governing municipalities the City Trustees had better get a move on and employ an attorney.

That the $480 paid to Louis Breitenbach by the city for grading the First-street East extension would pay the city printing bills for seven or eight years.

That it is now in order to turn over a new leaf and make new resolves. That the people of Sonoma should pull together during 1898 and work for the common good of the town.

That Granice is having too much to say in this town and ought to be sat down upon. That the persons who thus express themselves are mad and jealous because he is prosperous, contented and happy.

That Fred'k T. Duhring set a good example for others to pattern by in putting down a basalt block gutterway in front of his store premises. That his example ought to be emulated by the property-owners on the south side of Napa street.

Division of Road Money.

The Board of Supervisors at their meeting last month divided the Sonoma Road District into three districts, as follows: San Luis, Agua Caliente and Glen Ellen. At the time of the division there was $4,546.68 to the credit of the district.

At a meeting of the Supervisors last Monday a motion was passed to apportion the money to the three districts, as follows: San Luis, $1700; Glen Ellen, $1,423.34; Agua Caliente, $1,423.34. Any orders and motions passed by the Board on December 10th which were inconsistent with the above order of the Board were rescinded.

Poppe, Past President; Geo. Engler, President; O. W. Gericke, First Vice; F. M. Burris, Second Vice; John Gaffney, Third Vice; Benj. Weed, Marshal; P. G. Keil, Trustee; Louis H. Green, Secretary.

The will and petition for probate of the estate of Jean Baptiste Hosatte, who died last week at Vineyard Station, were filed in the Superior Court Tuesday. Fanny Villian and Alene Bertha Duhuy are the petitioners, through their attorney, Judge Rutledge. The value of the estate does not exceed $7000.

The counting of the funds in the County Treasurer's office Monday revealed the following:

Balance, Dec. 1, 1897	$ 88,831.29
Receipts for December, '97	283,440.44

This must have been very gratifying to Miss M. T. Redmond, the instructor, who is one of the most successful and painstaking teachers in the county.

While the New Year was hastening to overtake the old one merry masqueraders danced and held high carnival at the Firemen's ball. The affair was very successful, as everything passed off well and there were many maskers and many spectators. The Firemen had transformed Union Hall into a leafy forest of holly, pine and fur. From the chandaliers hung sprigs of mistletoe and banked against the walls were tall ferns. In all the decorations were very artistic. The tramp, old Mother Hubbard, Topsy, Snow, Santa Claus, the clown, the Princess and the Negro all joined in the merry, mazy dance and were lost in the whirl until 1897 was a thing of the past. After unmasking all the spectators participated and dancing continued until an early hour in the morning.

SNAKE WAS A ROOSTER.

With Eyes Aflame, It Lashed Its Tail Furiously.

Colonel Atwood, a well known survivor of the civil war, ex-veteran, and indefatigable narrator of hair raising escapades, had an experience with a snake recently. The colonel, who, by the way, is a dispenser of groceries, was driving past Slade's mills on the road to Waterbury, when his attention was attracted by the singular actions of three youngsters who were striving to dislodge something from the leafy foliage of a tree by throwing stones.

The colonel halted his team in front of the scene and inquired the cause of their exertions, when the boys replied that a ferocious blacksnake was up in the tree hissing at them, and all were afraid to go up and dislodge him. The old veteran could not believe the explanation, so climbing out of his wagon he looked up and saw the long, wiry form of a black reptile intwined about the branches, lashing its tail furiously from side to side, its piercing eyes aflame with a glittering light.

After trying all manner of inventions to drive the reptile from his place of retirement Mr. Atwood fortunately saw Frederick Warner coming on his wheel and hailed him for assistance. Between the two the tree was shaken, and the snake crashed through the branches, alighting upon the startled form of the colonel and winding its subtle form about his leg.

In an instant its fangs sank deep through his pants, while the colonel grappled with the reptile, who in turn struck him repeatedly with its fangs, causing the blood to spatter over his hands and clothing. Mr. Warner, seeing a favorable opportunity, sprang forward and rained blow after blow upon the furious reptile, who gradually succumbed to the unmerciful attack of its human enemies.

The colonel was to some extent fatigued by his severe exertion and loss of blood. The reptile is one of the largest seen, and all who heard of the encounter think it decidedly uncommon for a snake to roost in a tree.—Waterbury Democrat.

MINUS A FOREHEAD.

Mrs. Eames Underwent a Rare Surgical Operation.

A woman of Columbus, O., has recently undergone the rare operation of having her forehead entirely removed by surgery.

The woman who submitted to the operation is Mrs. George Eames. Her forehead was removed by Dr. W. U. Cole of Columbus, who was assisted in the delicate and terrible operation by Dr. M. F. Cole and Dr. William Blaney.

For about 15 years Mrs. Eames has been an invalid more or less. She is the victim of that dread disease tuberculosis.

To cheat death of his intended victim, Dr. Cole and his associates concluded it would be necessary to cut away the whole of the patient's forehead.

There are really two bones, or layers of bones, in the forehead. The outer and heavier bone had been attacked by the tuberculosis germs. This outer bone was cut away. The inner bone, or the one against which the fore part of the brain rests, was not even scratched by the instruments of the three scientists. It remains. Over it the flesh and skin have been redrawn by the doctors. The incision will in time heal up, and then it will be a difficult matter for any one to tell whether or not Mrs. Eames underwent the operation. — New York Journal.

Partridges and Chickens.

Down at Tom Mansfield's pet game stock farm, on Strawberry place, Maine, the other morning the old gentleman went out to feed his chicks with cracked corn. They came running in from all directions when he called them, scurrying in from the woods and bushes that here come right up to the edge of his farm.

He was surprised at the appearance of seven pullets that came running in with the rest. They were not Indian game pullets, though they looked like Leghorns of a brownish color. They came right up to within a few feet of Mr. Mansfield, who was wondering whose pullets they could be when suddenly one of them issued a warning call, and the whole seven turned and rustled back into the woods as prettily as ever a partridge flock took to cover. They were partridges, and beauties too. —New York Telegram.

Took Her on Trial.

Royal Lafferty and Rosella McPherson of Emporia, Kan., have been married under unusual circumstances. Both parties are middle aged, and they became acquainted with each other through a matrimonial agency. Lafferty lives at Reading and the bride formerly lived at Omaha. She came to Emporia to marry Lafferty and he took her a week on probation. He tried her cooking, examined her housekeeping, watched her temper and disposition and finally, concluding that she was all right, loaded her into his wagon, came to town and was married. The bride elect had been living with Lafferty's kin during the probation. Lafferty says he does not believe in love and that he is not to be fooled with pretty letters and nice clothes.—Cleveland Leader.

The Fall!

Now soon will come the summer's angry strife
With winter foes and many a gloomy day,
The sky the battleground where blue and gray,
Their struggle long since dead, stir with new life.
Already sounds the brown quail's whistling fife,
And whirring drum of partridge by the way!
Already is October's torch a-sway.
His blazing campfires everywhere are rife.
And crimson leaves, like fiery sparks, fall fast,
Blown by the wild wind's swift and hurrying rush!
Fiercely they wrestle, in contention brave
Till in the midst of some stupendous blast,
A silver silence trembles, stilling war,
And soft a snowy flag of truce doth wave!
—Pauline Frances Camp in Outing.

Most Wonderful Cave In the World.

The most wonderful cave in the world is in the island of Tonga, in the south Pacific. Byron called it "a chapel of the seas." It is formed in a rock that is almost surrounded by the ocean. This rock is about 60 feet high and broad proportionately.

Many years ago a boy, the son of a native chief, was chasing a huge turtle, when his game seemed to sink into the rock. The lad watched and waited until the tide fell, disclosing a small opening in the rock about six feet under low water mark.

Diving boldly, the young hunter entered the aperture, and, to his surprise, came to the surface inside the rock. The rock was hollow, and its interior was found afterward, when the natives explored it with torches, to contain many beautiful stalactites.

When attacked and followed by enemies, the natives, who know the secret, leave their canoes, plunge into the water and disappear. Their foes linger, astonished at their disappearance, for no person not acquainted with it would suspect that the rock was hollow.—London Telegraph.

A religious clambake is the latest novelty. They had one up in Rensselaer county, N. Y., recently that added $100 to the Sunday school funds of a Methodist church.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention the Sonoma Index-Tribune and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

Interesting Topics That Engross the Attention of Europe.

Czar Nicholas, before leaving St. Petersburg for Darmstadt, where he was recently staying with his consort on a visit to his brother-in-law, the Grand Duke of Hesse, gave orders for the drafting of a decree, which he expresses his intention of signing on his return to Russia and which provides for the introduction of compulsory education, free of cost, for all classes of the population. This move on his part is encountering an immense amount of opposition, especially in government circles, where it is argued that the principal source and cause of nihilism is the over-education of the lower classes of the population, for whom no occupation in keeping with their intellectual attainments can be provided or found and who are therefore so dissatisfied with their lot that their discontent takes the form of anarchy and nihilism.

In the workhouse of Heiden, in the canton of Appenzell, Henry Dunnant, the founder of the International Red Cross society, is passing the closing hours of his useful life. His mind is impaired, and symptoms of insanity have appeared, so that it is doubtful whether he will ever know that it was to him that the international medical congress, held at Moscow recently, unanimously awarded its prize as to "the man who has done the greatest service to humanity and medicine in the present age." Some years ago an announcement of Dunnant's destitute condition aroused universal astonishment and painful surprise, which were only set at rest when a statement was published to the effect that the dowager empress of Russia had settled upon him an annuity sufficiently large to enable him to end his days in comfort and peace. Unfortunately these good intentions of the czarina do not appear to have materialized, or else the money which she intended for the founder of the Red Cross has been diverted and misappropriated by those intrusted with its transmission. This often happens in Russia, and it is the exception rather than the rule when a gift from any member of the imperial house reaches its destination.

It is only recently that the British admiralty has sanctioned the use of salt in the bluejacket's daily allowance of food. Hitherto if the English sailor felt the need of salt he had to purchase it, and it was entirely omitted from the list of condiments supplied to him by the state. The reason for this was that in the old days of wooden ships the sailor's diet consisted almost exclusively of salted meats, and under those circumstances salt on the table would have constituted an irritating superfluity, but in these modern times "salt horse" has become a thing of the past, and with rations composed of either fresh meat or canned food salt is not only a desirable seasoning, but a necessity, the absence of salt from food being extremely detrimental to the health.

"Theater sickness" is the name of the new disease recently discovered by the eminent French physician, Dr. Morticole, which is at present a topic of a good deal of discussion in scientific and lay circles in Paris. The doctor declares that "theater sickness" and seasickness resemble one another, take their victims entirely unawares and prey especially on women. The symptoms consist of giddiness, loss of consciousness, a deep faint, and in perverse cases the malady causes death. It seizes a victim after he has gazed long at the stage and more commonly in tragedy than in comedy, and, in brief, it constitutes a species of asphyxia. When men feel "theater sickness" coming on, they become, according to Dr. Morticole, oblivious to all considerations of locality and put their heads between their knees, while women feel an inclination to recline with their feet at an acute angle above their heads, so excessive is the vertigo. Fortunately cases of "theater sickness" are as yet the exception rather than the rule. A theater where all the men's heads would be bowed down between their knees and where all the women were to have their feet in the air would furnish a strange mixture of the mournful and of the hilarious.

Emperor William is claiming credit for the invention of a new war machine called a battle line destroyer. It is a sort of motor car of thick steel, with portholes for machine guns, and in it are a dozen soldiers, who are thus protected from the enemy. The machine is to charge right down into the enemy's line, firing volley after volley as it goes, and, of course, rendering cavalry unnecessary. It will mow down the foe as it charges them, and a few dozen ought to be sufficient to annihilate an entire army if not blown up or stopped by a fallen tree or ditch and if the enemy provides easy roads for their approach. It is hardly necessary to add that the emperor's invention is merely the war chariot of the ancients in a modern dress and that it has been talked of and condemned by practical military men for years.
